A new “Blank-Out” mechanic is applied to the Overlapping Zone where a player can use a 360-degree view to see all the angles of action on the field. Players can also now see every player around them by selecting the Vision Menu. Use the new “Experience Points” system to increase a player’s performance at the top clubs. Players will be able to strengthen and develop their skills even further with individual player and team tactics, which are designed to make key moments even more intense and dynamic. FIFA 22 will also see the return of the “Open Player Draft” which allows players to sign and customize their dream squad. The FIFA Community Team also shares three new features: “Invite Friends,” a way to find friends to play with on Xbox Live, FIFA Ultimate Team and online matchmaking. “Modes & Challenges” will introduce new game modes, such as the popular “Stadium Tour” (available in the North American and European versions), and “Pass the Ball,” a new goal-based game. “Replay View” will allow players to watch any game from any angle and access the new celebrations. FIFA Ultimate Team will also be making a return, which will make the experience more social. Fans will be able to own over 100 unique player items, including custom-built player cards. This means players can create their ultimate team with both a vast selection of individual players and players from different leagues. The new “Online Challenges” will also add a new way to compete and show off your talents against your friends. “Social Season” will include in-game parties, “Four-a-Side” matches and league play. FIFA 22 will launch worldwide on Xbox One and PC on 27 September 2016. FILED NOT FOR PUBLICATION
