plans for co-operatives in finance The majority of the new money lending is expected to go to cooperatives which will continue to have their capital houses located in urban areas. Figures for the past year show lending to co-operatives has risen by almost 60 per cent (3,500 loans) compared to the previous year (2,300 loans). The Department of Finance says co-operative finance is a productive and sustainable form of alternative finance which benefits not only borrowers but also the broader economy. The proportion of people in rural Ireland who have their first mortgage with a co-operative has risen to 3.7 per cent, it says. "This is the highest ever recorded level. The former peak of 3.2 per cent was recorded in 2006," the Department of Finance says. The figures for the three-month period to March 2014 are higher than the 0.4 per cent for the previous three months, it adds. The Minister for Finance, Michael Noonan TD, said that he is very satisfied with the work of the regulator on the issue. "It is encouraging to note that the number of first mortgages taken
